Mofford recognized for vision, dedication to citizens of Brooksville

Family members pictured left to right are Mike McDaniel - son-in-law, Edgar Mofford - son, Mary McDaniel - daughter, Carroll Rice - brother-in-law, Faye Rice - sister, Donna Mofford - daughter-in-law, Jeff Mofford - son, Carol Villareal - daughter, Joe Mofford - son, Kelly Mofford - daughter-in-law, and Chris Mofford - grandson.

Family, friends, and community members gathered at the south steps of the Courthouse for a plaque dedication ceremony in memory of Brooksville Public Works Superintendent, the late Eddie Mofford. He was recognized for his vision, dedication, and the many contributions to the citizens of Brooksville and Bracken County. Bracken County Judge Executive Earl Bush and Brooksville Mayor Craig Hester both spoke of his knowledge he imparted to them and of the many times since his passing in April of 2012 they wondered what he would do in this situation or that situation. He was instrumental in the process of getting new sidewalks around the Courthouse and their layout.

Head to KY for a Water Getaway This Summer

If you're looking for a water-oriented getaway this summer, look no further than Kentucky, where pristine lakes, rivers and streams offer unmatched opportunities for escape and rejuvenation.

A long weekend at one of Kentucky's jewel-like lakes is a great way to refresh in the cooling waters that abound throughout the state. For the adventurous, whitewater rafting and kayaking on the Russell Fork River near Elkhorn City are also great options.

"Dozens of coves beckon houseboaters to Lake Cumberland, while Class IV rapids on the Russell Fork and Big South Fork test the skills of whitewater paddlers," said Mike Mangeot, commissioner of Kentucky's Department of Travel and Tourism. "Kentucky is a water vacation paradise."

Numbers tell the tale of Kentucky's water recreation assets. The Bluegrass State boasts:

89,400 miles of rivers and streams. Of these, 114 miles are designated Kentucky Wild Rivers, protected from man-made intrusions.

170 public lakes and reservoirs. Boating and fishing options are abundant.

4,268 miles of shoreline around Kentucky's three largest lakes – Lake Barkley, Kentucky Lake and Lake Cumberland.

225,000 acres of wetlands. Wildlife viewing is among the popular activities in these abundant areas surrounding lakes and streams. So get moving on your plans for a Kentucky water getaway this summer.

Nominations for Dollar$ for $cholars sought

Western & Southern Life is in the business to help people. In doing so, they have created the Dollar$ for $cholars program. According to Sales Manager Randy Reeder, "I sat down with Agent Lathe Brady and we put our heads together to come up with a way to help Bracken Countians. We thought it would be nice to help Bracken Co. parents with the burden of back to school shopping. So, we decided to donate $200 to the parents of one Bracken Co. or Augusta student to spend on back to school supplies or clothing."

To enter simply email the parents' name only along with their address and phone number to brackencogiveaway@gmail.com. The drawing will be held on July 22 for the lucky winners. For any questions call Lathe Brady at 606-584-4070 or Randy Reeder at 606-584-2817.

"Life is a Picnic" theme of Homemakers annual meeting

The Bracken County Homemakers 67th annual meeting, "Life is a Picnic" was held on Thursday evening, June 27th at the Extension Office in Brooksville.

County president Penny Sticklen welcomed the members and guests into an atmosphere of a family gathering complete with Americana deco and wildflower bouquets. Following the inspiration and blessing a picnic dinner buffet was served by the Parkview Inn with everything from fried chicken to homemade desserts.

Guest speaker for the evening was Barbara Browning. She delighted the members with her antics of stories, songs, and group participation by encouraging everyone to embrace every moment of every day as if you were on a picnic.

After a short intermission, the announcement of the scholarship recipients was given. They are Jordan Gaunce of Augusta Independent High School and Bethany Wolfe and Justin Hill, both from Bracken County High School.

The lighting of candles and memorials were thoughtfully presented for Margaret Adams by Sheila Collins; Evelyn "Toby" Jones by her sister Roberta Shepherd; and Edythe Ware and Retta Riggen by Louise Moneyhon.

The business session included the roll call of clubs, treasurer's report, budget, audit, attendance awards, and volunteer service hours. Election of officers named Penny Sticklen - president, Connie Jo Bowling - vice president, Louise Moneyhon - secretary, and Carol Davis - treasurer. Door prizes were announced. (Photos of winners on page 6.)

The enjoyable night ended with all the club members standing and reading in unison the Kentucky Homemakers Creed.

Compiled by The Bracken County Historical Society

From The Bracken County News - JULY 1, 1976

JULY 4, '76 A Glorious Time For America

"It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us … that this nation under God shall have a new birth of freedom - and that the government of the people, by the people, for the people shall not perish from the earth." Gettysburg Address. Nov. 19, 1863.

What's Good About America

The following was handed to us by Mr. Emery Story of Locust Ford Road. Mr. Story came across the poem while enjoying lunch in a Ft. Myers, Florida restaurant and thought it timely as this great nation of ours celebrates its 200th birthday.

What's good about America, a fellow snarled one day. I stood there in astonishment, I didn't know what to say. The words he spoke, they startled me—they're with me even yet. We take so much for granted and at times we may forget. It's true that when our economy slacks we may turn up our noses, And at the time he said it, things were not coming up roses. After months and months of "Watergate" and our President's resignation, Perhaps this man had a right to speak up in indignation.

What's good about America, that phrase stuck in my mind. And I knew if I'd search my heart the answer I would find. And so to you, my friend, who asks what's good about our nation, It's up to you and others like you that I make this affirmation. Compare America to any other nation in the world And then stand even taller when Old Glory is unfurled, Thank God for all the blessings he saw fit to bestow.

For all our mountains, rivers, fertile lands where things can grow. For the right to worship God in any way you see fit. For the spirit of a nation never losing faith or grit, For the right to live from day to day without fear of oppression, For basic civil rights and laws, freedom of expression. For democracy, free enterprise and freedom of the press For the right to vote on issues to make heard your no or yes To live in peace while other nations are having senseless wars And feel a sense of security within our hallowed shores.

And there in New York harbor for all the world to see Stands the emblem of America, "The Statue of Liberty" The scales of justice in her hand this gracious lady holds So American or immigrant within her arms enfolds. A blindfold covers both her eyes, she welcomes all as brother and to those blind unseeing eyes one appears just like the other. Though one be black or white or rich of poor or he or she When that lady looks down, they're all the same—real equality.

Now after that, the principals that have kept our country free. I speak, of course, of justice, freedom and democracy. Now look around America and see just what have you got And I think you'll all agree that we've got a mighty lot. And if someone else ever asks what's good about our nation, Just step right up and shock them with this civic clarification. Tell them how great America is and I think that I would say Yes, Brother, get down upon your knees and THANK GOD FOR THE USA.

The family of William Reynolds Kalb
Would like to extend their thanks and appreciation
To those who. . .
Visited with us—both at home and at the church.
Sent for our enjoyment—flowers, mementos, and memorials-
Especially our Perkins Ridge and Salem Ridge neighbors.
Shared their talents of cooking, organizing, and music-
The St. Paul Lutheran Church members for the delicious meal,
Tonda Hargett for the lovely music during the service,
And Reynolds' youngest son, Ronnie, for the special songs during the viewing.
Comforted us with prayer--
Pastor Kevin Leidich.
And who supported us during our time of need which came just six weeks after the loss of our Mother—
The Intensive Care Unit staff at the Veterans Administration Medical Center,
The grandchildren who served as pall bearers,
And John, Donna, and the staff of Moore & Parker Funeral Home.

We are so thankful that the last years of our Father's life
Were made enjoyable and comfortable for him by the following--
The dedicated professionals from the Veterans Administration Extended Care Program who took care of his medical and personal needs so he could remain in his own home—
As well as his friends and neighbors of Bracken County with their visits and calls.
With our hectic schedules, we often forget how wonderful it is to live in our rural area,
But our experiences with Daddy in the last few years
Only reinforces that we live in an amazing community.

Thoughts and Meditations from the Scriptures

WISDOM AND WELL-BEING

Philosophers have almost always touted the connection between wisdom and happiness. Aristotle, by defining us as rational animals, comes close to guaranteeing that through the correct exercise of reason we might become happy. But, Aristotle was aware that our passions and appetites could lead us astray, since they are essentially irrational, and so for Aristotle, the good life requires the correct use of reason in practical matters, what he calls "phronesis" or "practical wisdom." This practical wisdom is the result of a lifetime of experience. Aristotle says that no young person can be truly wise in the ways of life because he has not experienced enough of it. Likewise, the book of Proverbs is addressed to the moral education of the youth, repeatedly saying such things as "Hear, my son, your father's instruction," and "My son, do not forget my teaching." (Proverbs 1:8 and 3:1) The connection between practical wisdom and well-being has been empirically verified by the psychologists Richard Nisbett, Igor Grossmann and others. They defined practical wisdom as consisting of 5 aspects: 1) willingness to resolve conflict; 2) willingness to search for compromise; 3) recognition of the limits of personal knowledge; 4) awareness that more than one perspective on a problem can exist; and 5) appreciation of the fact that things may get worse before they get better. It turns out that the wiser we are, when judged by these criteria, the happier we are. - Christopher Simon

"For wisdom will enter your heart, and knowledge will be pleasant to your soul." - Proverbs 2:10

PRESBYTERIAN POTPOURRI
by Les Grooms, pastor Augusta Presbyterian

This week was busy. It was time for the annual Market Place at Ruggles Camp Ground. We took two of our great-grandchildren and Earl & Millie Bush had two of their grandchildren in attendance. There were over 160 children present for the three days. In addition there were over 130 adults present. The cost for the three days of day camp was $8 per child and this included three meals, snacks, and a t-shirt. Meals were typical of meals that they had during biblical times. Children of many different denominations were present for a great time.

After a long illness, Ruby Claypool's mother completed her journey here on earth. We attended the visitation at Germantown.

Joyce Gibson was the worship leader, Jill White did the power point, Barbara Nickoson led the singing, and Shelby England had children's church.

We had number of parishioners absent. Some were with family reunions, some on vacation, some were working, and for various reasons a number were just not present.

We had collected a lot of nonperishable food during V.B.S. and Bobby Claypool said he could deliver the food to the food bank this week.

Do not forget our Bread Basket meal on July 10. We had a large crowd last month who came to enjoy the food prepared by the ladies of the church and the grilled meats prepared by Dick Behymer who is ably assisted by Howard Murray.

Genna Lou Murray had a birthday and Jean & Jim Appelman were celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary.

HMH radiology receives ACR accreditation in MRI Services

The HMH radiology department can add another feather to its cap. The Magnetic Resonance Imaging (MRI) services received re-accreditation by the American College of Radiology. The program is accredited for Hitachi Open MRI for adult and pediatric patients.

The entire program is evaluated on the facility, personnel qualifications, image quality, equipment, quality control procedures and protocols. This involved an extensive application process. MRI Radiology Technologists, Abigail Coffee and Noelle Currans have worked on the project for the past year, along with the medical director of radiology, Dr. Doug Crutcher.

The ACR awards accreditation to facilities for the achievement of high practice standards after a peer-review evaluation of its practice. Image quality and procedure evaluations are conducted by board-certified radiologists and medical physicists who are experts in the field. The program also evaluates personnel qualifications, adequacy of facility equipment, quality control procedures and quality assurance programs. All findings are reported to the practice via a comprehensive report that includes recommendations for improvement.

The HMH Radiology Department plays a critical role in the accurate imaging, reading of images and diagnosis of patients by offering a full-range of services for both adults and pediatrics. The department is staffed by two board-certified, experienced radiologists as well as radiology technologists. All radiology technologists are certified and licensed in his or her field of practice.

To learn more about the radiology department, visit the HMH website at harrisonmemhosp.com. Or contact the department at 859-235-3559.

William Reynolds Kalb
"TOGETHER AGAIN"

Just six weeks ago, we were saying good-bye to our Rubye as our Father in Heaven took her home. We are here again to say our painful good-byes to Reynolds, Rubye's partner of seventy years, as he too joins her and our Father in heaven.

Many years ago, George and Lottie Kalb bought their beautiful farm located on the corner of Perkins Ridge and Salem Ridge. I, along with the other neighbors on Perkins Ridge, quickly came to love George, Lottie, and their only child, Reynolds. In December, 1943, Reynolds married his beautiful Rubye and brought her to live on the family farm. This blessed union was the icing on the cake for Tommy and me. Reynolds, Rubye, and their six wonderful children became treasured friends to our family.

Reynolds would often be seen driving his truck along Perkins Ridge. He would always sound the horn, wave, and a smile would be lighting up his handsome face. In the later years, he would often stop and visit when he saw Tommy sitting on our porch. The two men would talk of old times and I can still hear their laughter as they reminisced. I know how much Tommy enjoyed those visits, and I am certain Reynolds did as well.

Each year, Tommy and I enjoyed watching the yearly farming rituals beginning with the spring activities. It was always evident that Reynolds loved the farm. He was happiest when he was on a tractor no matter what the task-- setting tobacco, cultivating the crop, mowing and baling hay, or bush hogging. Of course, there was the annual event of getting the tractor stuck in the pond because Reynolds did not want any weeds on his pond bank!

Reynolds and I shared a love and appreciation for the "country life" . . . especially on Perkins Ridge. It was important to him that the farm and its heritage not be lost. Reynolds stuck to that belief to the end and wanted so badly not to go to the hospital when he fell on that Saturday. I think he knew that he would not see his beloved farm and Perkins Ridge again as the ambulance pulled away.

When Rubye had to move in to the nursing home in May, 2010, because she could no longer walk and was having trouble with her memory, Reynolds spent the next three years missing the love of his life daily. Workers at the nursing home shared that Reynolds visited often to encourage, to feed, and even to tease his partner of many years. Walking by her room, workers would see him talking to Rubye patting her hand and with tears streaming down his face because he felt so badly that they could not be at home. When Reynolds was not at the nursing home, if you asked Rubye how she was doing, she would always respond, "I am waiting for my husband to visit."

The love that Reynolds had for Rubye was never more evident than when we all watched as he said his good-bye to her on Tuesday, April 2, 2013. In the days following her death, he tried very hard not to let his family and friends know how sad he was. I believe that the Lord looked down and said it is time for my Perkins Ridge kids to be together again. Reynolds has shown his children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren as well as his neighbors how to live their lives as Christians and as a family. So on Thursday evening, May 9, 2013, Reynolds quietly slipped from his earthly body to join his loved ones in heaven where there is no pain as well as no struggles to breathe or to see.

While I will miss my wonderful neighbors, Reynolds and Rubye, they have left me six wonderful children—Lois, Jeannie, Jay, Ann, Eddie, and Ronnie-and their families to love and cherish. To them I say . . . Please keep your light shining and may you always know how blessed you are to be Reynolds and Rubye's kids.

Remember that . . . "Tears are for a season, but joy comes in the morning."

Grandma Wilma

BCMS students attend 2013 Career Craze at MCT&C

Bracken County Middle School attended the 2013 Career Craze program that was sponsored by Maysville Community & Technical College. Pictured are the students who participated in events during June 3, 4, & 5. Career Craze is designed to promote career awareness to 6th, 7th, and 8th graders using a fun-filled hands-on approach. Each day, students were given the opportunity to explore new and exciting career adventures from the following career paths: Agriculture/Horticulture, Culinary Arts, Robotics, Cosmetology, Architecture, Energy Systems, Entrepreneurship, Careers in Health, Public Service, Military, Animal Science, Early Childhood Education, and Manufacturing. The activities offered valuable information to students about future career paths. This program was a wonderful experience for middle school students and exposed them to a higher level of thinking. BCMS collaborated with the college to recruit about 20 middle school students. Vicki Fisher, BCMS Guidance Counselor, facilitated the event for the students. Parents were invited to attend the closing session on Wednesday, June 5 that consisted of guest speakers and a presentation of student experiences throughout the week. Parents and students heard remarks from Honorable Guest Speaker, Lt. Governor Jerry Abramson.

Much appreciation to the Bracken County Board of Education and Superintendent, Jeff Aulick for providing daily transportation to and from Maysville Community and Technical College.

Howdy Folks! Happy 237th Birthday to the United States of America! With all that is wrong with it, we are still fortunate to live in such a nation and pray that the true spirit of the founding fathers be taught and integrated into the lives of all citizens! July 4th has been a federal holiday since 1941, but the celebration of Independence Day dates back to 1776. The 2nd Continental Congress voted to declare independence from Great Britain on July 2, 1776, and on July 4, 1776, the delegates voted to adopt the Declaration of Independence, composed by Thomas Jefferson. Thomas Jefferson penned the document of independence and he wrote what has become one of the best known sentences in the English language: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness." This country was founded on a belief in God and until we once again put our trust in Him, we will continue to have turmoil. On this Independence Day 2013 may each of us utter the prayer with true sincerity, "God Bless America!"

Recently, someone posed a question about above ground swimming pools, wondering if Bracken County had any ordinances regulating them. Good question, but since we did not have the answer, we contacted County Attorney Michael Clark who stated that no such county ordinances existed, but we could obtain further information from the Bracken County Health Department and insurance companies. Mr. John Dells, Environmentalist for the Health Department stated that they regulate public swimming pools, but not private pools. The insurance companies that we contacted told us that they highly recommend home owners to install fencing around the pools for safety measures, but it is not a requirement. Most owners are very conscientious and make sure that when not in use, their pools are secure. Pools definitely create summer time fun, but as with everything that we do, we must follow the safety rules to truly enjoy the benefits of these summertime havens! Of course, when we were youngsters, the nearest creek was the place to gather and we are sure many of you can recall spending a lazy, hot Sunday afternoon in the shaded creek waters. Sadly, today's pollution prevents that in many parts of the United States, and Bracken County also has its share of creeks littered with plastics, tires, car parts and other debris. We need a group formed consisting of volunteers who are interested in cleaning fields and streams to 'house clean' our environment! Anyone interested??

Finally, on this Fourth of July, we have been informed that someone is using the dumpster at the Animal Shelter on Hamilton Road as their own! THIS DUMPSTER IS FOR ANIMAL SHELTER USE ONLY! Anyone putting trash into this dumpster is violating the law and can be fined! Large roll-off containers were placed there for public use when we had grant money to expend, but this small container is not for public use and putting trash in it will get you into trouble. We are still removing bags of trash from the Recycling Trailers and we need for this to stop as well. Enjoy the celebrations of today and remember all those who have sacrificed so that our cherished freedoms are protected! God bless the military, God bless the United States and God bless YOU as you RECYCLE, REUSE and REDUCE to keep His earth clean, green and beautiful! Be seein' you – Bin & Bug.

AIS Cross Country to get off to a Running Start

With the KHSAA Dead Period already half way complete, the beginning of the fall sports season is just around the corner. Augusta cross country practices will begin July 10 at 7:30 p.m. All students in grades 6-12 are invited to come out. A practice schedule for the rest of July will be distributed at that night's practice. While practice times will vary daily, they will either be at 9 a.m. or 7:30 p.m.

A Closer Look

Age-related macular degeneration (AMD) is the leading cause of vision loss and blindness among Americans aged 65 years and older, but many Baby Boomers do not even know what it is. Ignorance can be hazardous in light of the fact that the best way to prevent and treat the disorder is to have regular eye exams. Age-related macular degeneration affects the macula, the central part of the retina that enables the eye to see fine detail. It also obscures central vision while leaving peripheral vision intact, which can make it difficult to identify faces. Early detection of AMD is critical because there is no cure for the disease, but treatment may help to halt its progression.

AMD can develop quickly or slowly. The disease usually affects one eye first and then the other. When a large amount of central vision is lost, people find it very hard to do simple, everyday tasks that require sharp vision. This includes reading, sewing, driving or even recognizing faces. Our physician and staff members are hand-picked to be compassionate, patient-oriented personnel with the aim of providing our patients with the best, friendliest care possible. At KENTUCKY EYE INSTITUTE, we are currently accepting new patients and welcome your call at 606-759-7883 or 800-658-7282 to schedule an appointment. We're located at 1937 Old Main St., Suite 1, Maysville. We specialize in "EYE CARE FOR ALL AGES".

P.S. Research shows that nutrients such as beta carotene (vitamin A) and vitamins C and E may help prevent or slow progression of dry macular degeneration (the most common form of the disease).

Adopt-A-Shelter-Dog

June has been great for adoptions at your local Bracken County Animal Shelter. If you're looking for a smaller dog, this four month old male pup we call Buster is very friendly and great with children.

We have received many calls on dogs being left in the sun all day with no shade. This would be considered inhumane treatment, the deprivation of necessities. Necessities include providing food, water, shade and shelter.

Let me also mention that under ordinance 53.006 relating to the humane treatment of animals the fine can run up to $500.00 and sentenced up to (12) months in jail. If you are caught leaving your dog in the sun without shade you will be cited to court, no excuses.

A huge thanks to all who have assisted Animal Control with information concerning mistreatment of animals during this hot weather. During July and August your help will needed and appreciated.

Author: John Erickson
Reviewed by:
Georganna Carpenter

Have you ever read a Hank the Cowdog book? I have and it was great!

This book is about a cowdog named Hank. He thinks he's all that just because he is "head of ranch security." Hank and his best friend, Drover, get into some trouble here and there. They discover a murderer is loose and killing all the chickens. Hank and Drover follow the tracks and argue about who's the killer. Drover thinks it's a coyote – Hank says it's a raccoon. Hank gets mad at Loper, owner of the ranch, because he blames Hank for the murders, so Hank decides he is leaving the ranch! Once he leaves, he finds a pack of coyotes and decides to join them and be an outlaw! Does Hank ever come back to the ranch? Does Hank become an outlaw forever? Do they find the real murderer? To find out read Hank the Cowdog – The Original Adventures. You can check it out at your local library.

Joshua Underwood to receive the California Casualty Award for Teaching Excellence

Joshua Underwood, a technology and science teacher at Robertson County High School in Mt. Olivet, KY, is a recipient of the California Casualty Award for Teaching Excellence, one of the nation's most prestigious honors for public school educators.

Underwood is one of 36 awardees who will be honored at the NEA Foundation's Salute to Excellence in Education Gala to be held in Washington, DC on February 7, 2014. Known as the Academy Awards of public education, the gala attracts more than 850 of the nation's leaders from public education, philanthropy, and the private sector.

"We give these awards annually to honor and promote excellence in education and to elevate the profession. Educators like these are critical to their students' academic success, and they deserve national recognition." said Harriet Sanford, President and CEO of the NEA Foundation. "We are thrilled that California Casualty has joined us again this year to pay tribute to educators who are making such a difference in the lives of students in classrooms across the country."

"Educating our youth is so critically important. California Casualty is proud to partner with the NEA Foundation to pause and celebrate excellence in teaching," said Beau Brown, Chairman and CEO of California Casualty.

Underwood was nominated by the Kentucky Education Association, the National Education Association's state affiliate in Kentucky. Photos and names of all of the awardees can be found on the NEA Foundation website. Each awardee's school will receive a $650 award.

From the 36 state awardees, five finalists will be selected to receive $10,000 cash awards. At the conclusion of the Washington, DC awards gala, one finalist will be named the nation's top educator and receive an additional $25,000.

The NEA Foundation and the National Education Association jointly present the awards with support from California Casualty, NEA Member Benefits, Pearson Foundation, and the Horace Mann Educators' Corporation.

Frankfort Focus

A Legislative Perspective on the Kentucky General Assembly
State Rep. Mike Denham

For 237 years now, our nation has celebrated its independence on July 4th. If John Adams had had his way, however, the fireworks and parades happening on Thursday this week would occur on Tuesday instead.

That's because he thought July 2, 1776 – when the Second Continental Congress actually voted to break away from Great Britain – would become "the most memorable epoch in the history of America," rather than two days later, when the Declaration of Independence was formally adopted.

Although his prediction proved wrong, it certainly didn't diminish the major role he played in our country's early history. He led the push to have Thomas Jefferson be the chief author of the Declaration of Independence, and with George Washington directing the Continental Army by this point, Adams and Jefferson were the only ones to sign it who would later go on to be President.

They later became political adversaries, but their friendship survived as the years went by, and both died just hours apart on the same day: July 4, 1826, the 50th anniversary of the very document they helped to create.

Kentucky, of course, was not one of the 13 original colonies, but as part of Virginia, it did play a role in our country's early years. To begin with, there were several skirmishes during the Revolutionary War, including one of the last: The Battle of Blue Licks.

While that fighting occurred after the war was largely over, it was still a devastating blow for our early settlers. Among those killed were Colonels John Todd and Stephen Trigg – the namesakes of two of Kentucky's counties – and Daniel Boone's son Israel.

As for the fourth of July itself, some memorable actions have taken place on that date across the state over the years. What is believed to be the holiday's first celebration west of the Alleghenies took place in Central Kentucky in 1794, for example, and in 1862, the Battle of Tebbs' Bend was fought in what is now Taylor County, which saw heavily outnumbered Union soldiers turn back attacks led by Confederate Brigadier General John Hunt Morgan.

In 1924, that date was also the formal dedication of the Kentucky African American Civil War Veterans' Monument in Frankfort, which at the time was only the fourth memorial in the country memorializing their service.

While each fourth of July is set aside as a celebration of freedom, it is also a time to remember all who have sacrificed their time, talents and even their lives and limbs to make that possible.

Kentucky has always given more than her fair share, and over the last dozen years, our contributions have grown substantially.

Last summer, a study authorized by the Kentucky Commission on Military Affairs underscored just how much the commonwealth provides when it comes to protecting our country.

Military expenditures here have jumped dramatically over the last decade, from $3.2 billion to $15.3 billion. That includes a tripling of defense contract work awarded to private businesses.

Kentucky has 58,000 active-duty and civilian employees based at our military installations and nearly 14,000 others serving in the National Guard or the Reserves; we also have the fourth-highest number of active-duty Army personnel among the states. In addition, there are 27,000 military retirees living in Kentucky.

It would be difficult to put a price on the countless contributions we see from the military here in Kentucky, and it would be impossible to calculate the value we as a nation have received from the millions of men and women who have served our nation, from the Founding Fathers to those wearing the uniform today.

As we celebrate our country's symbolic birthday, I encourage you to recall their actions as well. Without them, July 4th – and every other day of the year – would be greatly diminished.

They had arts and crafts, games, snacks, and story time for the kids to enjoy while they were there for two days. The kids had a blast! Trish Conley, Marilyn Heiert and all of the volunteers are appreciated for helping to make camp a success. It is hoped everyone has "fun in the sun" this summer!

One-and-done Nerlens Noel slip to No. 6 cost himself $5.62 million

Let us celebrate with moderation, Nerlens Noel's good fortune this celebratory week (July 4).

A multi-millionaire, ($2,640,600, according to NBA Rookie pay scale), the newest Philadelphia 76er is probably house shopping for Mom, gated community of course. And, assuming he has a driver's license, a shiny new car to go with tailored and monogrammed wardrobe, while his agent negotiates a product endorsement or two.

Noel has arrived. Life is good, right?

Well, maybe.

Drafted sixth, not first, then traded, Noel told reporters he felt overlooked and declared. "I'm going to make them pay."

Truth is, Noel the teenager, ought be spouting modesty since he is 30-plus pounds light and three years short on experience to talk payback anything.

Noel must prove he's up to an 85-game grind for a franchise in rebuild mode, the travel, and flurry of temptations.

Unmoved by sentiment and draft expert projections, five NBA general managers demonstrated that Noel leaving Kentucky after two semesters was a mistake. Too skinny and with a surgically repaired and untested knee, the kid who took bad advice.

Most talking-head prognosticators, ESPN to CBS to draftexpress.com, said Noel would be first pick to the Cleveland Cavaliers. Oops. All have gone quiet.

Anthony Bennett was top pick followed by Indiana's Victor Olapido. Then, if you were a Noel handler/advisor, including Kentucky's coach, came the big embarrassment ... three big man were drafted ahead of UK's one-and-doner – 6-9 Otto Porter of Georgetown, 7-0 Cody Zeller from IU, and 7-1 Alex Len from Maryland.

Noel was chosen by New Orleans and traded to Philadelphia.

Oops.

So, the kid who should be doing re-hab drills and shoot-arounds at UK's Craft Center as a sophomore-to-be at University of Kentucky this winter, is a teenage millionaire.

His college coach has already changed the subject. John Calipari won't be tweeting: Picked sixth instead of first cost Noel 1,793 million dollars for first NBA season alone.

Anthony Bennett's first NBA contract calculated out three years, will make him more almost $14 million; Noel projects to make $8.27 million. Difference: $5.62 million.

Oops

Bottom lines?

√ Leaving Kentucky too soon costs Noel millions.

√ This is the true face of dollar-driven one-and-done.

ARCHIE GOODWIN

One must be pleased for up-and-down Archie Goodwin. Chosen 29th by Phoenix Suns, one-and-done Goodwin could qualify as poster boy: "I wanna ball, man, show my game, not go to no college!"

He made the first round cut and is guaranteed $887,000 for first season.

What next? Goodwin, who seemed to want to fight every defender who muscled him in college, had better grow up fast or find himself in the D-League.

FARE-THEE-WELL, KYLE WILTJER

Basketball fans in Kentucky love shooters. It's in our genes. An efficient lay-up to conclude a fast break could be a logo for Rupp Era Big Blue, but the "gimme that old time religion to makes 'em holler," calls for a pull-up jump shot and swish at the end.

So, Kyle Wiltjer, Kentuckians will miss thee mightily. Big Blue Nation thanks you for the moments.

Wiltjer may change his mind, not transfer, but playing time for two seasons elsewhere seems a sound one.

The junior-to-be never got the public vote of confidence he earned. To wit: "Kyle's experience makes him our starter at power forward until somebody beats him out."

It never came. With a reloaded roster, Wiltjer was instead, expendable. Business is business.

UK & LEARFIELD REPORT

Seemingly more aware of academic achievement these days, University of Kentucky's athletics department issued good news recently.

The Learfield Sports Directors Cup, a measure of academic success in college athletic departments, reports University of Kentucky was 25th in final standings for the 2012-13 year. First top 25 finish in UK history.

Notably, neither men's basketball or football contributed toward UK's record Directors' Cup results.

The Learfield finish, "continues a pattern of consistent improvement in the Directors' Cup during the Mitch Barnhart era," the release said. "With the steady upward trend, Barnhart's goal is advancing UK into the top 15 by 2015.

"Clearly, the sports that gather the most attention, rightly or wrongly, are ones we've got to get better in," AD MitchBarnhart said. "Fans look at three or four sports, first and foremost, and it's interesting that while we might not have had the success that we've wanted or been used to, excitement for those sports is at an all-time high."

Right again.

Q&A DEPT.

Q. Who's the best Kentucky (basketball) Wildcat you ever saw?

A. Anthony Davis. From Hall of Famers Frank Ramsey and Cliff Hagan in early 1950s, to youngest All-American ever at Kentucky, Davis was nearest to Best of the Best, Larry Bird (at Indiana State).

Q. Lots of praise and expectation for Kentucky and Louisville are going to be next season. Are they really that far above others?

A. No. Both started last season ranked in top three. We know how that turned out.

Q. Coaches, active top 10. Your best of the best?

A. Easy. 1. Mike Krzyzewski, 2. Rick Pitino, 3. Bill Self, 4. Geno Auriemma (UConn), 5. Brad Stevens (Butler), 6. Mark Few (Gonzaga), 7. Kevin Stallings (Vandy), 8. Jim Boeheim (Syracuse), 9. Tom Crean (Indiana). 10. Shaka Smart (Virginia Commonwealth)

One to watch: Ray Harper, Western Kentucky.

CORRECTION

In this space last month a quote from Isaiah Thomas about Larry Bird was, well, a misquote. The correct one: Detroit Piston guard Isaiah Thomas told reporters in 1987 that if Bird were black he ''would be just another good guy'' instead of being portrayed as the league's best player."

And so it goes.
